A Good Value: The Phi Eta Sigma National Convention

by Molly M. Lawrence
Grand President

Phi Eta Sigma national leaders have begun the planning process and are looking forward to the 2012 National Convention and Leadership Workshops in Salt Lake City, Utah, on October 5-7, 2012. Chapters should also begin their plans now for attending the convention. The Executive Committee members and national office staff are hopeful that we will have a record-breaking number of chapters in attendance at the 2012 convention.

There is no convention registration fee for advisers and official student delegates (one official student delegate per chapter). During the convention period, the hotel and meals will be provided for the adviser and the official student delegate. There is a modest registration fee for alternate student delegates to attend, but we are working hard to keep out-of-pocket costs for the chapters as low as possible. All attendees should be prepared to cover their travel costs (airline, car expense, etc.), food expenses other than scheduled convention meals, and any personal expenses. Convention details will be forthcoming in an upcoming advisers' newsletter.

Phi Eta Sigma chapters include a chapter fee in addition to the national fee as a total one-time membership fee. This approach provides the chapter with operating funds. Chapter funds may be used for convention related expenses as well as programming, services, and social activities for the chapter. Some campuses provide other funding opportunities for student organization travel. These processes vary, and information for student organization funding is usually available through the student government association or student life office.

Chapters, of course, have time to conduct fundraising to cover the costs of convention attendance. Previous issues of the Forum contain articles on chapter fundraising projects. These issues are available on the national Phi Eta Sigma website at www.phietasigma.org through the Publications link. More examples are described in the Feature Articles and Chapter News sections of this Forum issue. Also, the student members of the Executive Committee, who attended and were elected at the last convention, are available as resources. Their names and email addresses are listed under the Leadership link on the national website.

A targeted philanthropy will again be associated with the convention. For the 2012 convention, the philanthropy will be special needs education in the Salt Lake area. Chapters and members are encouraged to raise funds that will be donated to the Utah Schools for the Deaf and the Blind (USDB). The national office will distribute to chapter advisers the guidelines for making donations and submitting entries for the "best philanthropy" competition. A representative from the USDB will be in attendance at the convention to receive our check and provide an overview of how the funds will be expended. All Phi Eta Sigma members, regardless of whether they attend the convention, can make a significant impact on the lives of Salt Lake City special needs students through this philanthropy.

Get involved and make a difference. See you in Salt Lake City!

Another Landmark Year

by Elaine J. Powell
Executive Director

What a whirlwind year 2011 has been for Phi Eta Sigma! There is so much to share with Forum readers—accomplishments and events of the past year, as well as goals we hope to achieve in 2012—that I can hardly scratch the surface in these brief lines. Fortunately, the complete 2012 issue of the Forum will give a much more comprehensive picture of what is happening with Phi Eta Sigma, so I will simply highlight a few features here.

The Chapter News section of this Forum issue shows Phi Eta Sigma's continuing growth, both in the number of members inducted and in the number of chartered chapters. During 2011 Jack Sagabiel expanded his legacy as Grand Secretary-Treasurer by chartering three new chapters and rechartering one. Many of our chapters have broadened their reach across campus and into the community with outreach events and service projects.

The national Executive Committee met in Birmingham last summer to make important decisions regarding Phi Eta Sigma operations and opportunities. Committee members approved a restructuring of the scholarship offerings. This restructuring will increase the number of $7,500 graduate scholarships from four to six, expanding our assistance to upper division Phi Eta Sigma members who plan to continue in full-time studies toward a post-graduate degree. More details about the scholarship program will be posted on the website and sent to chapter advisers.

Executive Committee members Jack Sagabiel, Tim Lemper, and Jeremy Ball worked tirelessly to revise the Society's Constitution and Laws. Their work included the amendments that had already been approved by the last national convention, the reorganization of the national office leadership, the implementation of changes to the scholarship program, and a general cleanup of some outdated or ambiguous language in the document. The revised Constitution and Laws received unanimous approval from Phi Eta Sigma chapters, and the document went into effect in January 2012.

The Executive Committee also selected Salt Lake City, Utah, as the site for the 2012 Phi Eta Sigma National Convention and Leadership Workshops. Records Manager Ria Butts joined me on two planning visits to Salt Lake last year. Working with the Salt Lake City Convention and Visitors Bureau and Little America Hotel, we have made great strides in preparations for this important event. The University of Utah and Brigham Young University will be the hosts for the convention. On one of our visits, Ria and I met with chapter advisers Meg Harper (Utah) and Heather Hammond (BYU), along with Executive Committee student member Christina Christiansen (BYU), to discuss ways their chapters will assist with the convention. Be sure to read the convention overview in this issue of the Forum and watch for details and registration materials to be sent to chapter advisers later this spring.

Back at the national office, we welcomed Debra Benton as the newest full-time member of our office staff last April. Debra's experience in marketing and corporate business has already brought a fresh perspective to many aspects of our operations. Debra fields most phone calls and emails to our office, providing first-class service and assistance to members and chapter advisers alike.

In my position with Phi Eta Sigma, I try to review the accomplishments and challenges of the past in order to gain insights for improving our future. Our strong, innovative student leadership and the inspiring guidance of caring chapter advisers are points of great pride in our honor society. As we look back on the landmark year we have just closed out, I hope we will look ahead with anticipation, boldness, and purpose. May we never stop striving to uphold the mission upon which Phi Eta Sigma was founded. May we carry on the tradition of recognizing and rewarding high scholastic achievement with the integrity and honor that such excellence deserves.

New Chapters Installed

Since the 2011 Forum was published, Phi Eta Sigma has chartered three new chapters and reactivated one chapter. Several campuses are in the planning phase pursuant to chartering their chapters.

GAINESVILLE STATE COLLEGE

Gainesville, Georgia
April 7, 2011

Gainesville State College is a four-year public institution within the university system of Georgia. Founded in 1964, the college hosts two campuses and a student body of approximately 9,000 students.

The Gainesville main campus lies on approximately 150 acres and features thirteen buildings. A new five-story, 130,000-square-foot academic facility opened during the fall of 2011. The Gainesville-Hall County area is the leader in banking, finance, medicine, law, and industry for northeast Georgia and lies on the outskirts of the sprawling metropolitan area of Atlanta, Georgia.

Dr. Mary Carney, honors program director, provided the leadership for the Gainesville State College chartering. Joining the Phi Eta Sigma Honor Society on the Gainesville campus are Phi Theta Kappa, Pi Lambda Theta, Sigma Chi Eta, and SPIRE.

Keynote speaker for the GSC chartering was Dr. Martha Nesbitt, president of Gainesville State College. Grand Secretary-Treasurer Jack Sagabiel presented the chapter charter to Dr. Carney, Jonathan Rajala, president of the GSC main campus chapter, and Sam Berding, president of the Oconee campus chapter.

EDWARD WATER COLLEGE

Jacksonville, Florida
April 21, 2011

Edward Waters College is, distinctively, Florida's oldest independent institution of high learning as well as the state's first institution established for the education of African Americans. The original school, established in 1866, met the needs of the community by offering courses at the elementary, high school, college, and seminary levels. The school eventually evolved into Edward Waters College in 1892.

With a history beginning in the dark yet hopeful days of Reconstruction, today's Edward Waters

College is living, thriving proof of the power of education and the resilience of deeply rooted educational institutions. The college continues to experience the triumphs and challenges characteristics of its rich history and the bold dynamic future to which it aims.

Dr. Bertha Minus, long-time member of Phi Eta Sigma and vice president of academic affairs at Edward Waters College, provided the leadership for chartering the chapter. College President Nathaniel Glover shared remarks with the

The chartering was conducted by Dr. Minus and the charter chapter officers: president Wayne

STETSON UNIVERSITY

DeLand, Florida
October 10, 2011

The 193rd chapter of Phi Eta Sigma was rechartered on October 10, 2011, at Stetson University, directed by Dr. Michael Denner, chapter adviser, associate director of Russian studies, and director of the University Honors Program. Phi Eta Sigma has rejoined Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa, and numerous other honor societies on the Stetson campus.

The Stetson University chapter was chartered on October 18, 1978, by Dean E. Garth Jenkins and Professor Gene Medlin with sixty-five charter members. Approximately two hundred of Stetson University's top students were inducted during the rechartering ceremony at the Carlton Union Building. Additionally, four faculty members were selected as honorary members—Dr. Michael Denner, associate professor of Russian studies; Dr. Phillip Lucas, professor of religious studies; Dr. Carolyn Nicholson, professor of marketing; and, Dr. Stephen Robinson, professor of music.

Special chartering keynote comments were shared with the charter membership by Provost Dr. Elizabeth “Beth” Paul and Dr. Grady Ballenger, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Ballenger is a long-time Phi Eta Sigma member.

The charter members were inducted by Dr. Denner, chapter president Joshua Solomon, vice president Colin Dougher, secretary Shannon

WHITWORTH UNIVERSITY

Spokane, Washington
October 18, 2011

Whitworth University is a private, residential, co-educational institute of arts and sciences and is affiliated with the Presbyterian Church (USA). It was founded in 1890 by George Whitworth in Sumner, Washington. It has a student body of nearly 3,000 students with almost fifty percent of the students coming from outside of Washington, representing thirty-four different states and twenty-six foreign nations. The university's 200-acre campus of redbrick buildings and tall pines offers a beautiful, inviting, and secure learning environment.

The university has a long history of honor society leadership. Whitworth University awards Laureate Society (Dean's Honor Roll) membership to academically high achieving students. In addition there are more than forty-five clubs and interest groups that are recognized and approved by the university.

Society member Jessie Hodet and Dr. Dale Soden, chapter adviser, generated the foundation for the chartering. Sharing their fellowship for a meaningful chartering were keynote speakers Dr. Beck Taylor, university president, and Dr. Kathy Storm, vice president for student life.

The charter membership was inducted by Dr. Soden, chapter president Jessie Hodet, vice president Heather Wermers, secretary Angeles Solis, and treasurer Lindsay Pund. A reception for the honorees and their families followed the chartering.

2011 Chapter Activities, Projects, and Leadership

More than 370 Phi Eta Sigma chapters nationwide offer national recognition to academically motivated students through induction into the honor society and by awarding local and national scholarships to those who excel in academics, leadership, and service. Phi Eta Sigma chapters engage Society members in leadership development, service projects, and social activities. They impact not only the members but also their local campuses and communities.

The Phi Eta Sigma family applauds the efforts of these chapters in promoting scholarship, exercising strong organizational skills, participating in campus and community help projects, and developing innovative programs to fit each local campus. Several chapters have shared with the national office brief glimpses of their members' activities and accomplishments. Following are the reports submitted to the Phi Eta Sigma national office by press time:

Phi Eta Sigma at The University of Alabama holds weekly meetings and conducts several service projects each year. At the Women's Soccer International Day, chapter members interacted with visiting families and did face painting. They also painted faces and handed out UA shakers during the Brewer Porch Fall Festival for special needs children. Members filled forty-six shoeboxes with assorted toys, personal hygiene items, and school supplies as gifts for underprivileged children through Operation Christmas Child.

The Bernard Baruch College (CUNY) chapter of Phi Eta Sigma had a busy and productive year of service. The chapter's goal for the year was to make a difference in both the Baruch and the New York City community. By having themed general meetings, members became engaged and contributed to the events for the year. Annually, the chapter hosts a holiday activity for fifteen young cancer patients and their families. Last year, the chapter arranged an "Easter Scavenger Hunt" and a special craft event for these patients. Smiles were brought to the faces of both the patients and the volunteers. The chapter also held the annual Masquerade Ball, where over $1,000 was raised for Relay for Life. The Ball won the Undergraduate Student Government's Event of the Year Award in 2010 and was nominated for the award in 2011. The chapter has planned other fundraising events for Relay for Life, including selling waffles and grilled cheese sandwiches, totaling over $3,000 for the cause.

The Boise State University chapter has over one hundred members since the chapter's first induction in April of 2010. The chapter strives to engage and challenge bright students to make a difference in both the community and the university. Members have planned and participated in many service projects including raising money for the Vera Bradley and Susan G. Komen breast cancer foundations, Rake Up Boise, Up 'Til Dawn, Beat Pete (a race against Boise State's leading football coach, Chris Peterson, to raise money for the university), Tunnel of Oppression (a campus wide effort to end stereotypes and harsh treatment of minorities after 9/11), clothing drives, and raising money through book drives for the Invisible Children Project in Uganda, Africa.

The Phi Eta Sigma chapter at The Catholic University of America inducted 164 students this fall. Members of the chapter work as tutors in the Center for Academic Success and volunteer in many projects and organizations that are available for them to join, both on and off campus.

Dillard University Phi Eta Sigma members have made the Society name known across campus with their new tradition of "Prelude to Induction," which is a weeklong series of activities culminating in an evening of heartfelt sentiment as they share their gratitude to those faculty and staff members that have supported their efforts throughout the year. The following evening thirty-six members were inducted into Dillard's chapter of Phi Eta Sigma. Once inducted, those students continued their momentum as they reached out to fellow students. The campus wide organizational fair was the segue into tutorials in preparation for midterms and finals. Phi Eta Sigma members showed their fun side as they participated with the campus community to sponsor a safe Halloween night for New Orleans youth who stopped by the Phi Eta Sigma Haunted Library exhibit during Trick or Treat on the Oaks. The children of New Orleans were not the only recipients of the latest inductees' goodwill. In the spirit of keeping the university's commitment to a greener world, students collected lightly used clothing, shoes, and household items during move out and donated them to the teen shelter in the city. To prepare future inductees, the Dillard chapter has a series of workshops on tips for success, learning and studying, and scholarships on the horizon.

At the Duquesne University monthly chapter meetings, officers and members have been brainstorming possible service projects. For the 2011 fall semester, the chapter collected funds for the World Wide Life Fund to adopt a grizzly bear, a sea turtle, a cheetah, and a great white shark. The chapter is preparing to hold an induction during the spring semester.

The Fayetteville State University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma participated in the university's clubs and organizations fair in order to educate potential members. Miss and Mr. Phi Eta Sigma were presented to the university and participated in the homecoming parade. The chapter also is involved with and supports the Gear Up program, a federally funded program whose purpose is to encourage more American youth to have high expectations, stay in school, study hard, and take the right courses to prepare for college.

The Gannon University chapter has been busy as always over the past year. The chapter continues to be the largest on campus, with just over three hundred active members. The members recently inducted a new executive board, with the veteran executive board training them on how to run the organization efficiently and effectively. The chapter has participated in a variety of events including the University's annual GIVE Day and the National Day of Caring, where more than fifteen members helped to plant a garden and paint a technology room at the Martin Luther King Jr. Center, a local organization that provides after-school services to inner-city children. As much as the chapter is dedicated to service, chapter members also participate in a variety of social events, including university-sponsored movie nights, local professional sports competitions, and special academic lectures. The students of the Gannon chapter love being a part of Phi Eta Sigma. They enjoy making new friends, sharing new experiences, and creating memories that will last a lifetime.

The University of Idaho chapter of Phi Eta Sigma kicked off the academic year with a well-attended social that featured free Phi Eta Sigma t-shirts. Chapter members followed up with volunteer outreach projects. Members tended a garden at the local Lena Whitmore Elementary School and volunteered for the local Make A Difference Day. A chapter Facebook page and the use of special OrgSyn software also have been incorporated into the chapter's organizing efforts.

Chapter Activities, Projects, and Leadership (cont'd)

The Phi Eta Sigma chapter at Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis started off the year with an all-day officers' retreat at Eagle Creek Park. Retreat activities ranged from brainstorming about plans for the year to making a map of the United States with a single rope while blindfolded, a fun exercise in teamwork. Chapter officers also created a survey that they sent to members in order to select events and activities based upon their input. Chapter members have participated in several IUPUI events, including Campus Housing Move-in Day, the Student Involvement Expo, and the Honors College Welcome. They also participated in the IUPUI Day of Caring in September and worked at Gleaners Food Bank to prepare almost eight hundred boxes of food for donation to local families. In October, they helped out Indy Parks and Recreation with their annual Hauntless Halloween, where members worked with young children and served as trail guides, refreshment vendors, and crafts assistants. They also participated in the annual Indianapolis Coats for Kids Drive and collected quite a few coats for distribution to children who need them. The next service project was collecting socks for the homeless during National Hunger and Homelessness Awareness week, followed by the annual holiday project of adopting local families and spending a Saturday shopping for the family members, having lunch, and wrapping their gifts so those families will have a happy holiday. Congratulations to the two IUPUI recipients of $6,000 national Phi Eta Sigma undergraduate scholarships for 2011-2012, Heather Kent and Sarah Smith. Chapter members are quite proud of their accomplishments and look forward to another great year!

Jacksonville State University chapter's annual Phi Eta Sigma induction was held April 12, 2011, with approximately two hundred family members and friends joining the sixty-five new inductees. The new members enjoyed the formal ceremony followed by a reception and short business meeting. The chapter awarded campus scholarships to three members who have maintained perfect 4.0 GPAs during their college careers: Tolulola Dawodu, Kristin Hays, and Dustin Rosser. New chapter officers were also chosen: Reginald Swanson, president; Alex Rainwater, vice-president; Leinin Schuerr, secretary; Jessica Polk, treasurer; and Robert Brown, senior adviser.

The Kansas State University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma was represented at the 2010 national convention in Knoxville by the chapter adviser Monica Strathman and four members. On April 10, 2011, the chapter inducted 154 new members into Phi Eta Sigma. The K-State chapter of Phi Eta Sigma was recognized for its outstanding community service at the Seventh Annual Celebrating People in Action Awards ceremony on April 11, 2011, with the award for Outstanding Student Organization. The Celebrating People in Action awards are sponsored by HandsOn Kansas State, a University program dedicated to providing service-learning opportunities to K-State students through community partnerships, and Community 1st National Bank. The nomination for the award came from Marianne Cullers, director of the Hand-to-Hand tutoring program at the Douglass Center in Manhattan, Kansas. The Hand-to-Hand program provides free tutoring and homework assistance to low-income K-12 students in Manhattan. In her nomination, Marianne stated that the volunteers from Phi Eta Sigma were the most consistent and dependable. Chapter member Jeni Kemnitz coordinated the Phi Eta Sigma volunteers and communicated with the Hand-to-Hand program.

In addition to the Hand-to-Hand program service project, the K-State chapter selected the Johnson Center for Basic Cancer Research at Kansas State University as its ongoing philanthropy project. The chapter held a Bowl-A-Thon fundraiser at the Student Union Recreation Center with all proceeds being donated to the Center. Forty-eight teams of four competed in a scratch-bowling tournament for prizes donated by the Manhattan community. This was a great opportunity for K-State students to support cancer research and Kansas State University.

The Phi Eta Sigma chapter at Louisiana State University-Shreveport developed a student tutoring database for students on campus and served as greeters at the university's commencement ceremony in order to free the administrative staff to work in other areas. The chapter also participated in Box Tops 4 Education by collecting box tops to be given to local K-12 schools to help fund specific needs of the schools. Joining with the Division of Student Affairs, members collected canned goods to be put into holiday baskets for lower income senior citizens. The chapter had many accomplished speakers at the monthly meetings.

The University of Maine at Presque Isle chapter held a Candy and Christmas Card Drive for Treats for Troops, a nonprofit organization based in Florida that sends candy, Christmas cards, and care packages to American troops deployed overseas. After every Halloween, this organization invites individuals and groups to send them their leftover Halloween candy to be sent to military bases overseas. This also coincides with the November 1 deadline for sending Christmas cards in order for them to get overseas in time for Christmas. Phi Eta Sigma at UMPI collected cards along with candy, which has its own use in shipping. The candy is used as filler in the care packages, instead of using packing peanuts that would have to be thrown away. The drive was a success with several cards having been signed and a box full of bags of Halloween candy collected. These collections were sent to Florida where Treats for Troops would ship them to military bases overseas. The chapter's participation in this project was promoted in a local TV news story featuring members Mika Ouellette and Danielle Pelkey. For more information on Treats for Troops, visit the project website at: www.treatsfortroops.info.

The Monmouth University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma held its largest ever induction in 2011, welcoming 204 new members to the Society. Dr. Mercey Azekee, dean of the Center for Student Success, was the featured induction ceremony speaker. Phi Eta Sigma was well represented as Monmouth chapter members were involved in various events throughout the year. Chapter vice president Lori Mueller and public relations coordinator Aziz Mama were selected to participate in the National Conference on Ethics in America (NCEA), hosted by The Simon Center for the Professional Military Ethic and held at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. Dr. Golam Mathbor, Monmouth chapter adviser, also served as mentor for the NCEA.

Morgan State University Phi Eta Sigma members were recognized with Academic Achievement Awards in the spring of 2011. Several MSU chapter members were honored at the annual Student Organization Stars Awards Banquet. The Academic Achievement Awards recognize students who are actively involved in student organizations but manage to balance that involvement with academic excellence.

The New Mexico State University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma has successfully continued in its community involvement, freshman induction, and social event coordination due to the dedication of its members, officers, and advisers. Since the chapter's chartering in 2000 it has seen hundreds of Aggies succeed and grow. Every fall semester members "Keep State Great" by participating in a campus wide clean up, in preparation for homecoming hosted by the student government. Members have also participated in the Susan B. Komen Race for the Cure. In the midst of service, members also enjoy occasional socials such as BBQs, ice-skating, and holiday-themed events that involve donations to the Las Cruces community. La Casa, an organization aimed to diminish domestic violence, has benefited from such donations. This chapter of Phi Eta Sigma has thrived and will continue to thrive in encouraging and rewarding academic excellence among first-year college students, as well as providing support to its community.

Phi Eta Sigma at the New York Institute of Technology was very active in fundraising and volunteering. The chapter organized a Tie Dye Event that raised $353 for a breast cancer walk. Chapter members volunteered at Winthrop Hospital and made Halloween masks with the children. They raised $200 for the Ronald McDonald House selling "color-your-own" umbrellas and volunteered at St. John's Bread and Life, helping organize the distribution of toys and food for needy families during the holiday season. The Phi Eta Sigma chapter organized a "Bowl for Ghana" event that raised $1,300 to benefit the Jesse Rohde Foundation, which works on establishing basic infrastructure and critical necessities such as clean water, access to medical facilities, sanitation systems, and essential manpower in rural Africa. Members also raised $1,000 for the school's Relay for Life annual event.

The SUNY-Buffalo chapter conducts a wide range of activities throughout the year. Academic activities include tours of the Buffalo and Erie County Botanical Gardens, the Ripley's Believe It or Not Museum in Niagara Falls, Canada, and the Buffalo Museum of Science. For leadership experiences, members have participated in workshops on campus that explore the different leadership styles of men and women, in addition to training in successful public speaking and icebreaker activities. They have also participated in community service events in the Buffalo area that included Set UP for Down Syndrome, a Habitat for Humanity building project, and a toy drive for underprivileged children. Fundraising efforts include a Buffalo Sabres ticket raffle, a BINGO night, and a pancake breakfast. Their social events include a giant banana split ice cream social, Fright Fest at Darien Lake, bowling, snow tubing, and a potluck dinner. They are also planning a campus wide field day competition that would involve other honor societies and campus organizations.

Oklahoma City University Phi Eta Sigma members participated in Light the Campus, a campus wide event to provide food and toys to those in need in our community. Emily Sanders was the recipient of a $1,000 Phi Eta Sigma undergraduate award, the first national scholarship for the chapter since 1992. New members were inducted in the spring, followed by the election of a new slate of officers for the 2011-12 academic year.

The University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg chapter of Phi Eta Sigma participated in and organized various volunteer events, such as Hobgoblin Hikes, a Creek Clean-up for Earth Day, and a Heartwalk event for the American Heart Association. The chapter held a stress management event in which UPG students could hear a talk by the campus counselor, make stress beads and bath salts, and learn deep breathing and muscle relaxation techniques. Phi Eta Sigma members set up a concession stand for a student-faculty basketball game, the proceeds of which were contributed to the Arc of Westmoreland, a non-profit organization that provides services to children and adults with disabilities. In addition to these service projects, three chapter officers, along with chapter adviser Kerry Holzworth, attended the 2010 national convention in Knoxville.

University of Puget Sound chapter members cleaned up the landscape on their assigned Adopt-A-Spot several times during 2011, even combining their work with geo-caching on one occasion. The chapter sponsored a university-wide cupcake decorating contest and a very successful faculty lecture featuring Dr. Amy Ryken, who challenged students to be good citizens, be active in the education process, and be working toward solutions to the many challenges faced by teachers. Chapter members also helped with a local blood drive and now have several other projects in the planning phase.

The members of the Southwest Baptist University chapter were excited to begin a new school year with plans for a record-breaking induction. Last year they began a series of campus events called "Coffee Talks," designed as a format for discussion of academic ideas in a more casual, conversational setting. Topics included "Faith and Politics," "Stress Management for the College Student," and "The Politics of the Gospel." Service projects for the chapter included "Pizza, Pop and Patriots," in which members created

These projects enable members to get more involved with the chapter and the Knoxville community as well. With the chapter advisers working in the university's career services office, members often are provided with first-hand information about internships and job opportunities. They are able to participate in fun and helpful events such as the Recipe for Success dinner, a workshop that teaches proper dining etiquette, and other activities that help students prepare for a job search. The chapter also holds study day breaks at the end of every academic semester to give students a fun break during the finals period. Phi Eta Sigma offers UT students a coffee bar, snacks, and study supplies, such as highlighters and post-it notes. Lastly, chapter members are proud to hold their annual induction ceremony for new members each April. They hope this year to get members more involved with service events and to increase recognition of Phi Eta Sigma on UT's campus.

As president of the UA chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, Brian oversaw two induction ceremonies and the implementation of a Scholars Bowl tournament, a campus-wide activity resulting in the winning team representing the university in regional competition. He led the chapter in campus and community service projects, such as canned food collections and joint projects with other campus honor societies.

In 2002 Brian represented his chapter at the Phi Eta Sigma National Convention and Leadership Workshops in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he was elected as one of three student members of the national Executive Committee. He worked with other Committee members and the Phi Eta Sigma national office in planning the 2004 national convention in Savannah, Georgia, where he conducted a leadership workshop on membership recruitment.

Brian's academic recognitions during his undergraduate career included awards from the College of Commerce and Business Administration and being named as one of the top seniors and top junior scholars by the marketing department. He also earned membership in Lambda Sigma, Mortar Board, and Omicron Delta Kappa honor societies.

His other service and leadership activities include participation in the Wesley Foundation, being a leader in his church, and involvement with Urban Ministries, an organization that focuses on uplifting residents in urban Birmingham. He was treasurer for the university's Residence Hall Association and participated in the Blackburn Institute, a student organization that develops student leaders through civic engagement. He also served as vice president and then president of the Alabama Yell Crew (spirit organization for the football team).

He is currently pursuing a master of business administration degree with a concentration in operations management at Vanderbilt University's Owen School of Management.

Brian enjoys puzzles in various forms—visualizing an end solution and making pieces fit together to achieve that solution. In his career and in his personal life, he hopes to find challenges where he can use his creativity and other skills to find solutions that are helpful to organizations and individuals that rely on his support.

The Forum of Phi Eta Sigma – Then and Now

by Mary Jo Custer, Grand Historian

The Forum Early Days

The Forum magazine has been a part of Phi Eta Sigma since 1931. The Forum acts as a method of recording Phi Eta Sigma's history, noting the accomplishments and activities of the chapters. The first two black-&-white photographs (one of founder Thomas Arkle Clark and one of the delegates at the second national convention on December 4-5, 1930, at DePauw University) appeared in the first issue of the Forum magazine, Volume I, No. 1, February 1931. A few black-&-white photos have appeared in each succeeding issue of the Forum.

A general fund balance sheet was included in the Grand Treasurer's report in the February 1931 issue of the Forum, taking up only a small space as part of the report of the second national convention. In the May 1932 issue, the treasurer's report also included income and expenses, a schedule of accounts receivable, and a list of investments. Financial statements did not appear in every issue but were frequent additions to the Forum throughout the early years. Eventually the Grand Treasurer's report began to include a statement of good standing from a CPA who had reviewed the Society finances, in addition to the balance sheet and other financial statements.

The first Founders Fund scholarship was mentioned in the convention summary report of the June 1941 issue. The $300 cash award went to Robert Sites Voris of Penn State in 1940. Although the award was mentioned in that issue as part of the treasurer's report, the recipient was not featured. Two recipients were selected for scholarships in 1942 and were featured with photographs in the March 1943 Forum. Every Phi Eta Sigma scholarship recipient has been featured in the magazine since that time.

Dean Jim Foy, Grand Secretary for thirty-nine years and on the Executive Committee for over fifty (1936-1992), installed more than two hundred Phi Eta Sigma chapters throughout the country. For much of his tenure as Grand Secretary and editor of the Forum, funds were in short supply, and printing was quite expensive, especially the printing of photographs. Eventually the material in the Forum, including the number of photos, increased as funds increased throughout the Foy years. The first color photo appeared on the cover of the 1977 edition of the magazine.

Until the spring of 1989, the Executive Committee would meet for two hours prior to the start of a national convention to discuss Phi Eta Sigma business and the agenda for the convention. That spring, then Grand President Dr. John W. "Jack" Sagabiel asked the Executive Committee to meet in Louisville, Kentucky, to review the past, present, and future of Phi Eta Sigma. Each member of the Executive Committee was present for the two and a half day meeting, each of whom paid their own personal expenses (travel, housing, and meals). By now the Founders Fund scholarship program was providing $35,000 in scholarships and awards each year. The graduate scholarships were $2,000 each, and the undergraduate awards were $500 each. Jack's Grand President article in the 1990 Forum was the only mention of the first ever off-convention-year meeting of the Executive Committee.

Current Executive Committee members who were present at those early off-year meetings included Jack Sagabiel, John Harrell, B.J. Alexander, and Molly Lawrence. The 1991 off-convention-year Executive Committee workshop featured among its items of business the resignation of Dean Foy as Grand Secretary-Treasurer-Editor, effective January 1, 1992. The Executive Committee elected Jack Sagabiel as Dean Foy's replacement and John Harrell as Grand President. The national office relocated from Auburn University to Western Kentucky University (WKU) in Bowling Green, Kentucky, during the November 1991 Thanksgiving holiday. The office opened for business at its new location on January 1, 1992, with Jack Sagabiel and his wife Marge as the office staff. The following year the Sagabiel family welcomed business student intern Ria Butts as a part-time records assistant at the Phi Eta Sigma national office on the WKU campus.

Today's Forum and Green Efforts

The Phi Eta Sigma national office staff has changed significantly since the early days. Elaine Powell is now the Executive Director, Ria Butts is a full-time staff member, and Debra Benton joined the staff in 2011. Jack and Marge Sagabiel are now enjoying their lives in retirement—but will always be part of Phi Eta Sigma. Even through these years of transition, Phi Eta Sigma continues to recognize and reward outstanding students, and the Forum continues to chronicle the growth and impact of the honor society.

The 2011 off-convention-year Executive Committee meeting was held in Birmingham, Alabama. Jack, Molly, and John were once again present, along with other current Executive Committee members. The Executive Committee took advantage of the meeting location to tour EBSCO Media, the company that has been printing the Forum since 2001. It was a huge treat for Executive Committee members to meet with members of the production management staff and review the publication process for the Forum. Special thanks go to EBSCO Media staff members

John Harrell, Tim Lemper, Mary Jo Custer, and other Executive Committee members are intrigued by the description of the printing process given by EBSCO Media printing consultant Joe Bellafato.

Joe Bellafato and Randy Jamerson for sharing their time and expertise with our group.

In the modern era Phi Eta Sigma recognizes the importance of “green efforts” and appreciates what EBSCO Media does to assist in this endeavor. Some of EBSCO’s sustainability efforts include:

FSC COC Certification - EBSCO Media is proud to be an approved provider of FSC certified papers. By choosing to print on paper that is Forest Stewardship Council Chain of Custody certified, customers help create demand for responsibly managed resources, which in turn motivates more suppliers to adopt good stewardship practices.

Vegetable Inks – EBSCO Media uses vegetable-based inks, which are less harmful to the environment than petroleum-based alternatives.

Material Reclamation – EBSCO Media has been recycling all paper trimmings and make ready sheets since 1985. Press plates, solvents, and waste ink are also collected for distribution to recycling centers, not landfills.

Sequencing of Jobs – EBSCO’s production coordinators work to sequence jobs by type as much as possible. This reduces the labor associated with changing over presses and reduces the amount of ink waste.

Computerized Prepress – EBSCO electronic prepress methods skip the film stage entirely, which speeds up production time, eliminates photochemicals, and reduces the amount of water and energy used in every job.

Digital Printing - Very short runs can be produced digitally, eliminating the plate stage as well. By providing both offset and digital production methods, EBSCO Media matches jobs to the most appropriate method of production.

Lean Manufacturing – EBSCO Media employees are trained in Lean Manufacturing methods and regularly participate in kaizen events designed to eliminate waste throughout the system—from office processes to the production floor. By constantly working to reduce the number of process steps and eliminate errors, they become much more efficient, which is ultimately better for the environment.

What You Can Do

It is important that we all do our share in these efforts. Here are a few recommendations from EBSCO and Phi Eta Sigma:

Mailing Lists – Helping the Phi Eta Sigma national office to clean up its mailing lists to reduce the number of undeliverable pieces is one of the most important things chapter leaders can do to reduce waste. There's nothing good about unread materials in landfills. Provide the national office with your chapter's current shipping address each year and notify the office if the address changes. Specify the exact quantity of magazine copies you wish to receive each year and make sure the copies are distributed to your members.

Recycled Papers - By specifying papers that contain a high percentage of recycled content, you can reduce the environmental impact of your local printing projects considerably.

Green Design - Ultimately, the choices made by the designer of any printing project have the most significant effect on the environmental impact of a piece. And these choices are not limited to specifying recycled paper. Here are a few more things everyone can do to reduce the waste associated with printing jobs:

- Design for standard sheet sizes. This will reduce the amount of trim paper.
- Avoid metallic inks, which tend to degrade and have higher VOC emissions.
- Avoid coatings such as varnishes, UV and lamination when possible.
- Reduce quantities by better managing data. Most lists contain erroneous addresses that will never receive the materials mailed to them.
- Print digitally. Toner is 100% non-toxic and produces less chemical waste than ink.
- Reduce page counts.
- Eliminate glues when possible. Design creatively with folds and tabs instead.

Phi Eta Sigma members can become more familiar with environmentally friendly icons. We see them everywhere: tucked neatly into the design of cereal boxes, book covers, and bottle bottoms alike. But rarely are they accompanied by a name, let alone an explanation. Here are a few of the more commonly spotted “green” icons identified and briefly explained for your enlightenment.

helping us all save money and protect the environment through energy efficient products and practices. Results are already adding up. Opening the Door to Leadership: A Former Chapter President's Story

by Andrew McGuire, Gannon University

Leadership is not easy to come by. Sometimes a leader is born, but other times a leader must make his or her own destiny and define his or her own future. Merriam-Webster Dictionary defines leader as a person “who guides others toward a common goal, showing the way by example, and creating an environment in which the members feel comfortable.” A leader must also distinguish himself or herself as a unique individual who will not crumble in times of criticism and will not boast in times of success. Many will try to become great leaders but will only be good leaders. A select few will break the mold and become great leaders. I will admit that I was not a leader prior to becoming involved with Phi Eta Sigma, but the experience and lessons that I have learned since becoming affiliated with the organization will stay with me throughout my lifetime. It all started with an induction ceremony and a campaign speech.

I had never planned on running for a leadership position in a large organization on my college's campus. I felt that I would not have enough time and would not be successful in the long run. At the time I was a physician's assistant major and knew that schoolwork was my main priority over anything else. However, some curiosity existed inside of me. I had never held a position in a major organization during high school or my first semester of college. A part of me wanted to concentrate on my studies, and another part wanted to try a leadership role. After much deliberation, I decided to give the latter a try. I gave my speech at our university's induction ceremony and waited for the results. Much to my surprise, my name was read off of the ballot as the newly elected president. I, literally, was speechless and did not know what to expect. My fellow executive board members and I worked feverishly to make crucial decisions for our chapter. Sometimes we made decisions that put us in good light with our members, and other times we had to make difficult decisions that upset some people.

Throughout my tenure as president of my chapter, I learned what it means to be a leader and the hardships of being the one people look to as a leader. From my experiences, I have learned three basic rules for being a great leader. The first thing I learned is to keep your eye on the prize and stay focused on your mission. One thing that separates a great leader from a good leader is a passion for the organization and its mission. Since I was inducted into Phi Eta Sigma, I have made it a part of my life, both socially and academically. Due to this, I now have very close friendships with the people who were on my executive board and have healthy relationships with the people I led. Academically, my professors hold me to a higher standard and expect more than “average” work. Like most leaders, I strive to never disappoint; and when I do, I take it personally and do whatever it takes to fix the situation.

Andrew McGuire joins other national Executive Committee members for a tour of the printing facility at EBSCO Media in Birmingham.

The second rule is to put the organization's members first. In Fortune 500 organizations, four different constituencies exist: the shareholders, the managers, the customers, and the employees. In terms of large organizations, the shareholders would be the individual schools, the managers would be analogous to the national Executive Committee, the employees would be the officers or executive board of each chapter, and the customers would be the rest of the organization in its entirety. There is a saying, “The customer is always right.” This statement could not be any more valuable to a leader. By attending to the members' needs you show them you are the “go-to” person for their problems. In this way, you will become established as someone who is a problem-solver, which is another key quality of a great leader.

Lastly, a great leader must actively listen to colleagues and must delegate responsibilities as necessary. It is crucial, not only for your time management but also for your sanity, that certain duties are delegated to other members of your organization. The difference between a good leader and a great leader is the ability to admit to oneself that taking charge and making every decision is sometimes too much. Delegating some responsibilities to others fosters a leader's peace of mind and allows others to become better leaders. After all, a great leader is also a mentor to the future leaders of the chapter, sharing wisdom and knowledge with those he or she leads and enabling them to spread their wings and grow.

I cannot dictate to you how to be a great leader, nor can I teach you how to even be a leader for your organization. I can only provide guidelines for your lifelong quest for education and knowledge. If you choose to become a leader, you must create your own destiny and accept the rewards and repercussions that come with the title. Great leaders make an impact on society and leave an impression on those they serve. In the famous words of businessman and author Harold R. McAlindon, “Do not follow where the path may lead. Go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.”

Rewarding Phi Eta Sigma Excellence: Tips on Preparing an Effective Scholarship Application

by Mary Jo Custer, Scholarship Selection Committee

The first Phi Eta Sigma Founders Fund scholarship was a $300 cash award for graduate studies to Robert Sites Voris of Penn State in 1940. Two recipients, Paul V. Smith of the Miami (Ohio) University chapter and Percy Don Williams of Southern Methodist University, were selected for graduate scholarships in 1942. Thereafter, the Founders Fund scholarships continued to increase in number and in award size.

In 1988 at the University of Akron national convention, the Society voted to expand the Founders Fund to include undergraduate awards. Then in 2006, the Society chose to award the first Thomas Arkle Clark Scholar-Leader of the Year Award in the amount of $10,000 to Indiana University chapter president Katherine Harris.

As a member of Phi Eta Sigma, you have been recognized for your scholastic achievement. If you continue to excel in your collegiate activities, you could also be rewarded with a Phi Eta Sigma Founders Fund scholarship. Successful scholarship candidates have been members who have completed the scholarship application process effectively and have clearly conveyed to the Scholarship Committee their past successes and their potential for future success.

The Founders Fund scholarship application requires standard background information, but it also asks for other information that should be expanded upon in written format on additional pages, including your plans for continued academic study. You should also include an implementation plan on how you will use your education and what you plan to do in the future.

The next section to complete on the application is Phi Eta Sigma participation, and this requires specificity. For example, you should list and describe any office or position you have held. Every chapter's offices may be different, so expand on the specific responsibilities and duties, as well as any unusual circumstances during your tenure (for example, a change in your chapter adviser or another officer stepping down).

Alex Kaplan (Florida State), recipient of a 2011-2012 graduate scholarship, served as a chapter officer and as a team leader for his chapter's leadership development workshops.

Chapter positions may include the standard president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Or your chapter may assign more unique positions such as philanthropy chair, social chair, membership chair, liaison between Phi Eta Sigma and another honor society, etc. In addition, you should detail the specific activities in which you were involved within your chapter, including your role in the induction ceremony.

Phi Eta Sigma chapters across the country are involved in an amazing variety of campus and community activities. Be sure to note your involvement in these activities on your application. Some of the community service activities we frequently see listed include:

Members of the Gannon University chapter, including 2010-2011 award recipient Regina Cowell, participate in the university's annual GIVE Day, helping with cleanup and fix-up chores wherever needed in the Erie community.

- Canned food and clothing collections
- Boo at the Zoo and other Halloween activities
- Disaster relief efforts
- Holiday events, such as collecting and distributing Christmas cards and gifts, holiday events at various hospitals or geriatric centers, and Easter egg hunts
- Dance Marathons, Make a Wish Foundation and other sponsoring activities
- Walks/Runs – Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure, Relay for Life, etc.
- Animal initiatives, including: Big Dog Rescue/Animal Shelter and local humane society events
- Environmentally friendly/green initiatives such as: street clean ups, Earth Day, planting trees
- Mentoring programs, possibly through Big Brothers/Big Sisters or similar community programs
- Outreach to homeless and volunteering at soup kitchens, Rescue Missions, Salvation Army, Meals on Wheels, etc.
- Blood drives
- Adopt a Family either during the holidays or another time of year
- Supporting the military through a sock campaign, letter writing, or working with the local veterans center
- Participating in World's AIDS Day, United Way Day of Caring, or another national day of service
- Hospital volunteering – local hospitals, VA Centers, nursing homes/centers
- Kids Night Out or other activities for kids

Other activities can be social or academic in nature such as:

- Semiformal dances
- Brain/scholar bowls and other academic events

- Academic tutoring for members or other students
 - Work with the Career Development Center on programs such as resume writing, speed interviewing events, stress management, undergraduate career planning, networking, and etiquette seminars
 - Bowling or skating for a social activity
 - Gathering as a group prior to a sporting event to show school spirit
 - Coffee talk with a faculty member to discuss various topics
 - Study Abroad and internship exploration
 - Sponsoring study breaks or goodie bags

In addition, be sure to describe your experience if you had an opportunity to attend a national convention. This description should include details, such as helping with a chapter display, serving as scribe or chair of a convention committee, or representing your chapter as the voting delegate or an alternate delegate. Some chapters have decided to host regional conferences or other joint chapter events. The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, Penn State, and Syracuse University chapters have hosted such events in the past.

Phi Eta Sigma members are exceptional and unique. The Scholarship Committee can learn a great deal about your uniqueness as an applicant by reading the description of your creative ability. This can be explaining how you approach life's challenges or sharing a piece of artwork. For someone in teacher education, it could be sharing a daily lesson plan. It can be a narrative of achieving Eagle Scout rank or overcoming a certain obstacle. What about that distinctive program you created when you were a resident adviser, or that uncanny knack of being a good listener? Are you an artist, a writer, a dancer or musician? Do you solve puzzles? Are you great with people and/or languages? Do you enjoy different cultures? Be original and imaginative in this area. Illustrate how you have been resourceful and innovative, what has inspired you, or how you have inspired others.

The Founders Fund Scholarship program requires a 3.5 GPA, but this is only a minimum. The average GPA of the 2011 graduate awardees was 3.806, and the undergraduate scholarship and award recipients had GPAs averaging 3.817 last year. In addition, the Scholarship Committee is interested in academic recognitions, such as awards, Dean's List honors, scholarships, other honor society memberships or solicitations for the same, including any leadership roles in other honor societies.

Another area upon which applicants should expand is participation in on/off-campus service and leadership groups, including sports, social/cultural events, and work with community service organizations. Many applicants include their volunteer work, religious activities, leadership retreats, and seminars. Service on the university judicial board, residence hall council, student government, and other campus involvement should also be highlighted.

The final area for elaboration on the scholarship application is work experience. This can include campus and off-campus work, as well as internships. Rather than simply listing jobs held, describe the experience you gained and your contributions to the experience. Resumes are frowned upon, as the committee prefers to see the creative manner in which you write up each section of the application.

Every member has his or her own personal excellence that can be highlighted, recognized, and possibly even rewarded. The Founders Fund is the means by which Phi Eta Sigma rewards academic excellence in its members. The Scholarship Committee encourages every Phi Eta Sigma member to consider applying for a Founders Fund scholarship in the future.

Our Year of Success

by Juliana Crump,
Chapter President, The Florida State University

The Florida State University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma had an amazing 2010–2011 academic year. Some of the highlights include:

- Participation of seventeen chapter members at the Phi Eta Sigma National Convention;
- The proposal and amendment of the national Constitution and Laws to modify the number of scholarship nominees larger chapters may submit;
- Enhancements to our online application and payment system used to recruit 1,087 new members;
- Hosting Dr. Eric Barron, president of The Florida State University, as guest speaker at our induction ceremony;
- Four of our chapter's members selected as recipients for national Phi Eta Sigma scholarships.

We began the year by selecting our Executive Board, consisting of the chapter president, five vice presidents, a secretary, and a treasurer. Our Leadership Council, open for any member to join, consisted of approximately forty students and was organized into five “committees,” each one focused on particular goals. The larger tasks included planning for the induction ceremony, membership drive, tutoring events, leadership workshops, members’ meetings, and Homecoming. The Executive Board met weekly to plan the bi-weekly committee meetings and ongoing activities.

Our first service projects of the year occurred the day before the fall semester began.

Phi Eta Sigma members greeted incoming students and their families at the New Student Convocation, scooped ice cream for faculty and students at an ice cream social, and tabled at “Seminole Sensations,” an event for new students to get involved on campus and meet members of organizations. This event-filled day set the pace for Phi Eta Sigma’s involvement at FSU for the rest of the year.

Throughout the year, we actively participated in campus outreach activities and resource fairs, conducted presentations, and hosted tutoring events to increase our visibility on campus. The chapter awarded its first endowed scholarship of $1,000 to Daniel Stribling for his undergraduate research in chemistry and conducted workshops to assist members in applying for local and national scholarships.

We finalized plans for our delegation to attend the 2010 national convention in Knoxville, hoping to maximize the benefits of our trip. One of our chapter’s goals for the convention was to pass a constitutional amendment allowing chapters to submit more scholarship applications. Our chapter has grown in size, as many other chapters have, and we thought it would be appropriate to allow more students the opportunity to be considered for scholarships. We achieved success at the convention as the proposed constitutional amendment passed. A summary of the changes to Statute VII, Section 6 “The Founders Fund” includes:

1 inductee to 149 inductees → 1 nominee
150 inductees to 299 inductees → 2 nominees
300 inductees to 499 inductees → 3 nominees
500 inductees to 999 inductees → 4 nominees
1,000 or more inductees → 5 nominees

After returning to Tallahassee, our seventeen delegates submitted a written evaluation containing their opinions of, ideas from, and overall experience at the convention. Enthusiasm among our delegates was so positive that we began planning a regional conference to be held prior to the next national event.

In November, we participated in Florida State Homecoming activities. Members had requested that we add more social events to our calendar, and Homecoming was chosen to provide this venue for our members. We asked our artistic members to design and create our Phi Eta Sigma Homecoming banner. Additionally, we participated in the “Renegade Recess,” a mini-carnival for the Tallahassee members of the Boys and Girls Clubs. We also participated in the Homecoming Parade, displaying our Phi Eta Sigma banner and waving to the cheering crowd. As we do for all events, we wore our Phi Eta Sigma t-shirts and handed out our memorable “I ♥ ΦΗΣ” buttons.

By December, we had finalized our plans for our on-line and in-person membership drives, established a detailed timeline, and created formal letters of invitation to eligible students and their parent(s) or guardian(s). We knew spring semester would be our busiest time, so we used fall to train our newest Leadership Council members to be leaders in their own right.

January saw the beginning of our membership drive, which involved identifying students who qualified for membership. Our Leadership Council held a chili party, where we stuffed and sealed more than four thousand letters for new qualifiers and their families. Additionally, we hosted our incredibly successful “Black and Gold Affair” to provide information and to socialize with these new qualifiers.

The month of February was dedicated to processing applications and payments from the new inductees. In the fall semester we had created two websites using “www.acceptiva.com”. The student website was for membership information and payment. The parent website was for chapter donations and congratulatory messages to their students. These parent messages were then printed in our 2011 induction program. A link to each site was included in our January student and parent letters. Due to the outstanding efforts of our Executive Board and Leadership Council, I am happy to report 1,087 students accepted our invitation to membership, bringing our total current enrolled membership to 3,698. Additionally, our chapter received a total of $3,294.50 in donations!

In March, we held our induction ceremony that most memorably included Dr. Eric Barron, president of The Florida State University, as guest speaker. Approximately 450 new members attended, along with numerous family members. Many well-respected faculty and staff members were also in attendance. A reception was held after the ceremony that included a breathtaking view, live music, and a large food buffet with a chocolate fountain.

One week after the induction ceremony we held a members' meeting, which provided the opportunity to learn about the many ways to get involved in our chapter. A few Leadership Council members shared their unique experiences with Phi Eta Sigma, did a great job at summarizing our chapter's involvement on campus, and described the many leadership opportunities and academic service projects we offer. In addition, we celebrated the Phi Eta Sigma win at Florida State's annual "Battle of the Brains," a jeopardy-style competition against other honor societies. This was Phi Eta Sigma's third championship since the "Battle of the Brains" began in 2007.

Shortly after final exams, we received very exciting news: Alexander Kaplan, Anna Kinast, Kiara Wright, and Juliana Crump had been chosen to receive national scholarships from Phi Eta Sigma! As we finished out the year, our chapter members felt overwhelmingly satisfied with the

Phi Eta Sigma Philanthropy Benefits Music Education

As a special project for the 2010 National Convention and Leadership Workshops held in Knoxville, Tennessee, Phi Eta Sigma chapters joined together in a philanthropy effort to benefit the Knox County (Tennessee) Schools. The chapters and national office combined their funds to make a $2,000 contribution to the Knox County Schools Music Department. Mr. Walter Mencer represented the school system in accepting the check from Phi Eta Sigma at the convention awards luncheon.

Two high schools in the Knox County School System were beneficiaries of Phi Eta Sigma's contribution, one school's band program and the other school's choral program. Mr. Mencer and the teachers of these two programs have expressed their appreciation for this support. The following is a letter from Mr. Mencer describing how the two music programs benefitted from those funds.

For details about the philanthropy project for the 2012 national convention in Salt Lake City, Utah, please refer to the information provided in the Convention News section on page 86 of this issue.*

To the Members of Phi Eta Sigma Honor Society—

On behalf of the Superintendent of Schools and the Knox County Schools Music Department (Knoxville, Tennessee), I want to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the members of Phi Eta Sigma for selecting the Knox County Schools Music Department as the recipient of a very generous $2,000 gift. The money was divided equally between two of our high school music programs—$1,000 for the band program at Austin-East Magnet High School and $1,000 for the choral music program at Central High School. The teachers for both of these music programs were very excited to receive such a generous gift to help offset a portion of the expenses generated by their respective programs.

Mrs. Dorothy Brice, band director at Austin-East Magnet High School, stated that the contribution to her program was used to help cover transportation expenses for the band. The Austin-East band performs at all home and away football games and for several community events during the school year. Mrs. Brice expressed her overwhelming appreciation for the generous gift to the Austin-East Band Program from Phi Eta Sigma.

Mrs. Beckye Thomas, choral director at Central High School, stated that the money was used to help cover the cost of royalties for their production of “The Phantom of The Opera,” which involved more than one hundred students from the choral music department. Central High is the first Tennessee high school in the last twenty-five years to premiere Andrew Lloyd Webber’s full-length Broadway hit, “The Phantom of The Opera.” Mrs. Thomas and her choir students are deeply grateful to Phi Eta Sigma for making such a gracious and generous gift to the Central High School Choral Music Department.

Again, we thank the members and advisers of Phi Eta Sigma for the generous gift that provided much needed support to these two music programs in the Knox County School System.

Student Members of the Executive Committee

The unique strength of Phi Eta Sigma is its democratic form of student-led government. Student delegates and chapter advisers convened at the University of Illinois on November 23, 1928, for the first Phi Eta Sigma national convention. From the beginning, Phi Eta Sigma has placed faith in the good judgment of its student members and has found that faith to be fully justified.

The 1970 Louisiana State University convention amended the constitution to add a student member to the Executive Committee and elected Larry Jones of Southern Illinois University, who served until the Golden Anniversary Convention, hosted by the University of Illinois in 1973. At the Auburn University convention in 1974, the constitution was again amended to provide two student members; and the 1980 University of Florida convention increased this number to three.

The Nominations Committee of the 2010 convention in Knoxville recommended a team of three student leaders who were elected to serve on the Executive Committee for the next two years. Along with other members of the Executive Committee and the national office staff, these three students are planning and preparing for the 2012 national convention, where they will each conduct leadership workshops. As you meet these student leaders, you will appreciate the strengths they bring to the Executive Committee and to the Society.

About our 2010-2012 Student Members of the Executive Committee —

Christina Christiansen is a junior at Brigham Young University, majoring in business with an emphasis in marketing. She has been selected for the Dean's List and participated in a nine-country Western European study abroad program in 2011. Christina served as Phi Eta Sigma chapter president for 2010-2011 and currently serves as senior adviser. She is also a 2011 recipient of a $6,000 Phi Eta Sigma undergraduate scholarship. As a member of the Executive Committee, she is working with BYU chapter adviser Heather Hammond and University of Utah chapter adviser Meg Harper to assist the national office with preparations for the 2012 national convention in Salt Lake City. When she is not studying or involved in campus activities, Christina enjoys traveling, skiing, being active in her church, and spending time with family and friends.

Andrew McGuire is a junior nursing major at Gannon University, preparing to become a nurse anesthetist or surgical nurse practitioner. Andrew's involvement in Phi Eta Sigma began in the second semester of his freshman year, when he was elected chapter president for 2010-2011. Working productively with the chapter executive board during his presidency, Andrew successfully petitioned for a new chapter constitution and created job descriptions for future executive board members. Currently, he is senior adviser for the Gannon chapter. Outside of Phi Eta Sigma, Andrew is a member of the Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Business Fraternity, Alpha Tau Delta Nursing Fraternity, and Gannon University Environmental Club. He works as a biology lab assistant for chapter adviser Melanie Gustafson-Ropski. Andrew is also employed by the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center—Hamot as a technician in the emergency department and enjoys volunteering his free time to local health organizations.

Shayla Priddy is a student at Tarleton State University, where she is a mathematics major with a minor in education. She has served as Phi Eta Sigma chapter president and vice president, and she now serves as senior adviser. In her local chapter, she has worked heavily on recruiting new members and bolstering involvement of inducted members. Shayla has also been involved in organizing fundraising efforts to benefit the local chapter's philanthropy projects. In 2010 she was the recipient of a $1,000 Phi Eta Sigma undergraduate award. As the voting delegate for her chapter at the 2010 national convention, she was nominated for and elected to the Executive Committee. Shayla is also a member of Alpha Chi, Delta Epsilon Iota, and Omicron Delta Kappa honor societies. Her involvement with Phi Eta Sigma on both the local and national levels has been a highlight of her college career.

Forty-first National Convention and Leadership Workshops: Different by Nature—Empowered by Knowledge

October 5-7, 2012
Salt Lake City, Utah

The majestic Wasatch Mountains will provide a picturesque backdrop for the activities of the 2012 Phi Eta Sigma National Convention and Leadership Workshops in Salt Lake City next October. The unique history and geography of the Salt Lake area make it a perfect setting for Phi Eta Sigma members to gather and celebrate the theme, “Different by Nature—Empowered by Knowledge.”

When you arrive at the Salt Lake airport, student members from the University of Utah and Brigham Young University chapters will greet you and direct you to the hotel shuttle. You will then be transported to our host hotel, the distinctive Little America Hotel in downtown Salt Lake. Local chapter hosts at the hotel will direct you to the convention hospitality center, where you will receive your convention registration packet and customized t-shirt. You can also take advantage of some refreshments, share any materials you may have brought for display from your chapter (photos, shirts, posters, scrapbooks, etc.), and examine displays from other chapters.

Friday evening activities will begin with a dinner buffet at the hotel. The first official convention business session will follow dinner, after which committee meetings will be organized.

Convention delegates and alternate delegates will have the opportunity to serve on, or chair, important Society administrative committees, including the Finance, Constitution, and Scholarship Committee; the Nominations Committee; the Future Directions Committee; and the Promotions and Activities Committee.

The evening’s activities will conclude with a convention highlight—the ice cream social/gift exchange. Be sure to bring some specialty gift items from your chapter or school to exchange with the new friends you will meet at this event. Some of the most popular items to exchange have been pens and pencils, stickers and decals, cups, wristbands, t-shirts, caps, buttons, and magnets, to name a few. This will be a great time to enjoy making your own ice cream sundae and getting to know fellow Phi Eta Sigma leaders from across the country.

Saturday’s convention agenda will begin with a continental breakfast, followed by the second business session. After the business session, our Executive Committee student members and other Society leaders will present workshops on a variety of topics. Committee meetings will complete the morning’s agenda. The convention luncheon will feature the presentation of a number of individual and chapter awards, plus a check presentation to the Utah Schools for the Deaf and the Blind and recognition of the Phi Eta Sigma chapters participating in this year's philanthropy project.

After lunch you will want to change into your jeans and comfortable shoes for a casual afternoon and evening away from the hotel. We will board buses for a tour of downtown Salt Lake City, the Utah State Capitol, the University of Utah campus, and other points of interest. Then we will head out of the city to one of the outlying mountain resort venues for spectacular views of the Salt Lake Valley, outdoor attractions (such as an alpine slide, chair lift, and rock-climbing wall), a mouth-watering dinner, and dancing. Upon returning to the hotel, convention committees will conclude their work if necessary and prepare their final reports.

Little America will serve a hearty breakfast buffet for us on Sunday morning before we complete our business and go our separate ways. Our final business session will include reports from each of our convention committees and the election of the Grand Vice President, plus two at-large chapter adviser members and three student members of the Executive Committee. The democratic governance of the Society is perpetuated with each convention as student leaders exchange insights and make decisions to ensure a prosperous future for Phi Eta Sigma.

"Different by Nature—Empowered by Knowledge" is more than a theme for the 2012 convention; it is a commentary on the exceptional students who make up Phi Eta Sigma's membership. As convention attendees depart Salt Lake City, our hope is that they will have made new friends, discovered some of their own skills and strengths, and acquired new ideas on ways to grow and improve the effectiveness of their individual chapters. Make your plans now to join in this remarkable event in the life of Phi Eta Sigma!

Call For Philanthropy Efforts

A Letter from the Student Members of the Executive Committee

Greetings Fellow Members of Phi Eta Sigma:

What a privilege and an honor it is for us to serve as your representatives on the Phi Eta Sigma Executive Committee! We are proud of the work we have done so far and are excited about all we expect to accomplish over the next several months, especially in anticipation of the upcoming national convention.

In 2009-2010 Phi Eta Sigma embarked on a new project encouraging members to become more involved in philanthropic efforts. Four Phi Eta Sigma chapters held fundraising activities throughout the school year to support this project and were recognized for their work at the 2010 National Convention and Leadership Workshops in Knoxville, Tennessee. That first philanthropy project resulted in funds totaling $2,000 to benefit music education programs in the Knoxville area.

During the 2010 convention, the Future Directions Committee recommended continuation of the philanthropy project in connection with the theme and location of each biennial convention. The national Executive Committee further discussed this topic at its 2011 meeting and selected special needs education as the focus for the 2012 convention philanthropy project.

The next Phi Eta Sigma National Convention and Leadership Workshops will be held October 5-7, 2012, in Salt Lake City, Utah. As we consider the convention theme, "Different by Nature—Empowered by Knowledge," we as Phi Eta Sigma members have the opportunity to look at what makes us unique, to assess our special abilities and resources, and to make a difference in the lives of special needs students in the Salt Lake area.

The Utah Schools for the Deaf and the Blind (USDB) will be the beneficiary of this year's philanthropy project. Serving students with sensory impairments throughout Utah for more than one hundred years, the USDB leads the way in teaching the deaf and the blind to be self-reliant and contributing citizens of their communities. Over the years, services provided by the USDB have continued to meet the changing needs of students and families through modern technology and teaching strategies. These services include literacy and arts programs, Junior Blind Olympics, early intervention services, parent resources, residential programs, and many more.

Regardless of convention attendance, every Phi Eta Sigma chapter can be represented at the 2012 convention by being involved in this worthy philanthropy effort. We encourage all chapters to hold one or more events this year to raise awareness of special needs education in general and to raise funds for the Utah Schools for the Deaf and the Blind. You may also find a program in your local community that provides similar services, so your fundraising could be a joint effort to benefit both the local program and the USDB. An article in the 2011 Forum issue about the 2010 philanthropy project described the fundraising activities conducted by participating chapters and may provide you with ideas for your chapter fundraising activities.

When you hold your chapter fundraising events, be sure to document your efforts with photos, newsletters, local media coverage, etc. Submit a brief description of your efforts, along with photos and other documentation, to the national office by the fall deadline (to be announced later) in order to be entered in the competition for best philanthropy. Our student board members will review both the philanthropy project descriptions and the amounts raised, and we will select the chapter we feel has best exemplified the spirit of Phi Eta Sigma in this effort. The “best philanthropy” will be honored at the 2012 convention awards luncheon, and all project entries will be recognized. A check for the total funds raised will also be presented to the Utah Schools for the Deaf and the Blind during the luncheon.

Phi Eta Sigma has a proud tradition of excellence, leadership, and service. At the 2012 national convention, Phi Eta Sigma members will again have the opportunity to meet and share ideas with fellow members from across the country and to make decisions affecting the future of one of the most prestigious collegiate honor societies in the nation. But you don’t need to wait until next fall for your chapter to have an impact. Begin now by organizing events that will engage your chapter members in leadership development and service projects. We hope to see you in Salt Lake City this October, where Phi Eta Sigma members will exhibit their uniqueness and strength, “Different by Nature—Empowered by Knowledge.”

Sincerely,

Christina Christiansen
